

Families in Transition

Relocating between countries or transitioning across different education systems can create academic gaps and uncertainty for students. At Sri Sathya Sai Global School, this transition is supported through a structured and outcome-focused academic approach.

Students entering from different curricula (such as CBSE, ICSE, Cambridge, or other international systems) are guided through a clearly aligned learning framework. The focus is on ensuring continuity in core concepts, reducing learning gaps, and enabling students to adapt to new academic expectations with confidence.

Each student's academic starting point is identified through baseline assessments and subject-level reviews. This allows teachers to understand differences in curriculum exposure, depth of concepts, and learning pace.

Based on this, students receive guided academic support to bridge gaps and align with classroom progression. The emphasis remains on conceptual clarity, structured learning, and steady academic integration.

This ensures that students are able to transition across systems without disruption to their learning journey.

Curriculum Alignment and Academic Bridging

Sri Sathya Sai Global School supports students transitioning across education systems through structured academic alignment:

- Baseline assessments to identify curriculum gaps
- Bridging of core concepts across subjects
- Alignment with grade-level learning expectations
- Reinforcement of foundational understanding
- Continuous monitoring of academic progress

The approach focuses on helping students adjust to differences in curriculum structure, depth, and assessment methods.

Students are gradually familiarised with new academic expectations, including subject frameworks, evaluation patterns, and classroom learning approaches. This structured transition reduces confusion and builds confidence.

Teachers provide consistent guidance to ensure that students are not only able to follow lessons, but also understand concepts at the required level of depth.

The goal is to enable students to move seamlessly between education systems while maintaining academic continuity and progression.

At Sri Sathya Sai Global School, transitions across curricula are structured, guided, and aligned to ensure clarity, continuity, and long-term academic growth.
